SKILLFUL DETECTIVES

How Pinkerton's Men Captured the Express Robbers.

A REGULAR OLD SLEUTH STORY

If it was Fiction it Would be Considered Improbable—Five Men Arrested and Much Money Recovered.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Complete details of the chase after the Adams Express robbers, who rifled a safe on the St. Louis & San Francisco road the night of October [illegible] of $75,000 to $80,000, were related for the first time by officials of Pinkerton's National Detective agency last night to a representative of the associated press. The agency has succeeded in arresting five men, namely: Frederick Witrock, who is at heart the "Jim Cummings" letters and who is claimed to be the man who perpetrated the robbery; W. W. Haight, an employe of the express company, who is supposed to have aided in planning the robbery from his knowledge of the railroad runs; Thomas Weaver, a Chicago [illegible] who was with Witrock before and after the robbery; [illegible] Kinney, brother-in-law of Witrock, [illegible] was found [illegible] portion of the express money, and [illegible] Witrock's letters. The detectives [illegible] about $1,000, and [illegible] that from $40,000 to $45,000 is still [illegible].

A DASH [illegible]

The story of the chase has a dash of romance about it, and certainly, if written as fiction, it would be [illegible] improbable. An express car [illegible] St. Louis [illegible] was rifled on the night of October [illegible], and Express Messenger [illegible] Fotheringham [illegible] discovered by the train hands [illegible] bound and gagged in the car. He explained that he had admitted a man into the car who presented a letter from John R. Barrett, [illegible] agent of the express company, the letter explaining that the man was to be employed by the company, and was to be given an opportunity [illegible] the business. Fotheringham related that [illegible] on the run the stranger presented a revolver [illegible] and gagged him and then carried off all the money in the safe. The robbery occurred at [illegible] junction about thirty-six miles from St. Louis. Pinkerton sent operatives in all directions, and the way roads [illegible] Pacific in a direction towards the Missouri river were traversed, but only a [illegible] trace was found by these officials, and when they returned to St. Louis they were completely at sea. In the meantime a letter was addressed by "Jim Cummings" to the Globe-Democrat of St. Louis, [illegible] in which the Pinkertons claim to have [illegible] the arrest, and fixed the crime of all the parties in the crime.

TRACING A SUBJECT.

In the meantime, however, detectives had obtained a list of the names of men who had been discharged, or who had left the employ of the express company during the year preceding the robbery, and found among them W. W. Haight, who had been discharged [illegible] months previous for suspected theft of packages. This man had been a messenger on the Frisco road from St. Louis to Vinita, Indian Territory, covering the same route which was made by Fotheringham. A detective found that he and Fotheringham had known each other in Kansas City, but there had been no intimacy. Haight was traced to Kansas City and from there to Leavenworth, where his father was an inmate of the home for disabled soldiers. From Leavenworth it was found that Haight had come to Chicago, where he had been employed at times as express driver and also as driver for a laundry wagon for Tom Weaver, already mentioned as one of the prisoners, and also worked for Fred Witrock, the mysterious "Jim Cummings," who was operating a coal yard at the corner of Lincoln and West Lake streets in this city. Haight left the city October [illegible], two days after the robbery, stating that he was going to Florida, and his wife followed him some days later. They had been very poor, but showed evidences of sudden affluence immediately after the robbery.

MORE LINKS IN THE CHAIN.

Investigation by detectives in Chicago showed that Witrock also came from Leavenworth, and as he was absent from the city he could not be questioned concerning Haight. When the inquiry was pursued respecting Witrock it was found that he corresponded very closely to the description given of [illegible]. It was [illegible] that Witrock had left the city [illegible] October [illegible] in company with Tom Weaver, the laundryman, whose place of business is at West Lake street and within a few doors of Witrock's coal yards. It was also learned that the men had taken two valises, a double-barreled [illegible] and [illegible] and explained that they were going to Arkansas to hunt and look up [illegible].

Weaver, it was ascertained, had returned to Chicago [illegible]. Some handwriting of Witrock's was obtained, and this was submitted [illegible] the man who was passing judgment on the letter addressed to the Globe-Democrat. [illegible] the detectives [illegible] letter which was written to exculpate Fotheringham and professed to tell all the facts leading to the robbery and what had occurred after the robbery. In this Jim Cummings explained that he had left a package at the Union depot at St. Louis which would show that he had a number of letterheads of the express company similar to the one on which the forged letter was written and shown to Fotheringham. In this letter the writer said he had gone to the Missouri river [illegible] a point opposite Labadie and took a skiff below St. Charles and floated down the river.

UP THE RIVER IN A SKIFF.

Detectives were sent to St. Charles and found that two men answering the description of Witrock and Weaver had bought a skiff and provisions there and had gone up the Missouri river on October [illegible] instead of down the river. The skiff was afterward found in a gully partially covered with sand.

In the bundle Jim Cummings spoke of as having left at the Union depot in St. Louis, in addition to other articles, were some printed ballads, and on one of these was found the address "[illegible]108 Chestnut street," but which was only discernible under a microscope. At this number was found to be a woman named Mrs. Berry, who related that she had two lodgers who corresponded with Witrock and Weaver. They had come to her house on October [illegible], and Weaver departed on the night of October 2[illegible], saying he was going to Kansas City. Witrock left on the evening of October 25, explaining that he intended to go to Kansas City also. Mrs. Berry was able to give a very close description of both men. Searching the rooms they had occupied, two red stamps were found which corresponded to labels placed on two valises shipped to St. Louis from St. Charles, as was explained by a study of the books of the Pacific express company, showing that they were the baggage of the two men who had been at that place bargaining for a skiff and provisions.

A CLOSE WATCH KEPT.

When these facts had all been gathered a close watch was placed upon Weaver in Chicago and the coal yard of Witrock which was being managed by Kinney. Operatives were also sent to Leavenworth, where Witrock's mother and sister, both very respectable people, were residing. It was found that Haight's mother was in Leavenworth and that Haight's wife was in correspondence with Haight, who was located at Nashville, Tenn. Haight was discovered to have gone extensively into the roofing business at Nashville, and he was always kept under close watch.

About five weeks ago a daughter and son of Mrs. Berry of St. Louis came to Chicago and identified Weaver as one of the men who had been rooming at their house. The detectives then decided that they would not molest Weaver, but would await the return of Witrock.

Investigation about this time showed that Oscar Cook, formerly residing at Leavenworth, a close friend of Witrock's, had gone to Kansas City, where he was found to be working as a cooper in the East Bottoms and lived in a boarding house kept by a woman named Cook. A story was current there that Cook had won a large sum of money in a lottery, but this idea was very soon exploded. It was discovered that Cook had made [illegible] trips from the city and his journeys were always followed by the appearance of one of "Jim Cummings'" letters. Pinkerton's operative finally [illegible] Cook's [illegible] and continued to shadow him until [illegible] last Saturday.

[illegible] AT LAST.

Meantime the shadow on Witrock's house was maintained without result until last [illegible], when [illegible] Pinkerton's men found that [illegible] which they did not know. They saw him enter [illegible] street, the residence of Witrock, and afterward a large man who corresponded to the description of Witrock also entered the [illegible].

[illegible] continue [illegible] Witrock's brother-in-law [illegible] Fred Witrock [illegible]. The Pinkerton operative had followed Kinney and managed to see these telegrams, which were signed by Rose W[illegible], wife of the man the detectives were seeking so hard to find. The Pinkerton office in Chicago was warned, and [illegible] was shadowed [illegible] Witrock's [illegible].

In the meantime Kinney [illegible] Chicago [illegible] and Weaver [illegible] Witrock's [illegible] [illegible] Witrock [illegible] and finally [illegible] kept by [illegible]. A Pinkerton operative shadowed the place until [illegible] went [illegible] entered and arrested Witrock after a sharp struggle. Witrock attempted to draw [illegible] of which were found [illegible]. He protested [illegible].

on his person. The shadow turned out to be a young man named Geo. B. Burnham, whom Witrock met in Savannah, Ga. He explained that he had come North with Witrock and had shadowed the latter's house as Witrock had explained that he had shot a man in Chicago [illegible] and wished to escape arrest. He was afterward released when he had explained to the satisfaction of the detectives that he had no knowledge of or connection with the robbery. When Kinney reappeared he was arrested and $100 was found on his person in loose money, while in a belt around his waist was found [illegible]. The three men were ironed and taken to the Pinkerton agency in a close carriage. A search of the Witrock house resulted in the finding of a skirt on Mrs. Witrock into which $1,000 was sewn in $ [illegible] notes. A bunch of money, $100 in [illegible], was also found on the person, together with a fine burnt diamond. Weaver was arrested in a [illegible] yard about the same time, and in the basement of his house was found $8,000 in some fruit jars. The arrest of Cook and Haight was then ordered by telegraph. The detectives state that Cook distributed the money after the robbing and was a go-between. They charge Haight with outlining the robbery and also aiding in the forgery of the letter presented to Fotheringham. Witrock appears to have been the only man on the train [illegible] the robbery, unless Fotheringham [illegible]. The Pinkertons will not give [illegible] their views as to the guilt or innocence of Fotheringham.

[illegible] ARRESTED.

LEAVENWORTH, Dec. [illegible]. [illegible] A. M. Information has just been received that Pinkerton's [illegible] detectives and Fred Witrock arrived [illegible] this morning [illegible] is in [illegible] that there has been a large sum of money [illegible].

THE STORM IN ENGLAND

Telegraph Lines Everywhere Prostrated and Railway Trains Blocked.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—George W. Ward, general manager of the New York Commercial Cable company, has received the following information from the point of the line at Bristol, England: The [illegible] storm in England appears to have [illegible] amount of damage to telegraph wires which [illegible] unsurpassed. The London Daily News says the telegraph wires of the city last night were snapped with alarming rapidity and Fleet street the [illegible] encircled the broken ends around the lamp posts. The train on the Midland was delayed over an hour by falling telegraph wires across the [illegible]. A large number of telegraph and telephone wires fell last evening over the Metropolitan [illegible]. There was very severe weather at Reading [illegible] day. The snow that fell in the afternoon was heavier than has been experienced for years [illegible] causing considerable damage to the roofs of houses. Trees were [illegible] injured by the branches being wrenched off by the violence of the wind. In the Downing [illegible] the Great Western road trains were delayed by snow drifts on the line from Paddington to Reading, and from Bath to Bristol all the telegraph poles are a perfect wreck, most of the poles being splintered like matchwood and lying in all directions. In the railway block the lines being down, the trains are considerably delayed and are signaled along [illegible]. It seems probable that the wires between Bristol and London will not be restored for two or three days. Telegraph lines in other directions have suffered equally as far as can be ascertained.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—After the violent gale and unusually heavy snow storm, a rapid thaw set in throughout the country. The storm did great damage to the grounds around Buckingham palace. In Hyde park, London, trees were blown down and all over the country telephone and telegraph wires were destroyed and railway trains impeded.

NUMEROUS WRECKS.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The damage to telegraph wires is greater than for many years. The snow was accompanied by [illegible] on the southern and eastern coasts. Reports of numerous wrecks are slowly arriving. There has been much damage to life and property.

GLADSTONE ANSWERS TENNYSON.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Gladstone has written for the January number of the Nineteenth Century an article entitled "Locksley Hall and Jubilee." The article is a criticism of the poem by the light of the events of the past fifty years.

THE ENGLISH DILEMMA

A CABINET COUNCIL.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—At the cabinet meeting to-day Salisbury read the correspondence that passed between himself and Churchill relative to the latter's resignation. He [illegible] nature of the [illegible] Hartington, who he said refused to take office in the cabinet and strongly favored a tory successor to Lord Churchill. The cabinet left the matter in Salisbury's hands, who will probably renew his offer to Lord Hartington. After the cabinet meeting Lord Salisbury proceeded to Windsor castle and conversed and dined with the queen. The [illegible] [illegible] Osborne [illegible].

SALISBURY'S [illegible].

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Salisbury [illegible] the cabinet he would not attempt to conciliate Lord Randolph [illegible] even if Lord Hartington refused to accept the [illegible] a guarantee of the government [illegible] the former unionist platform, adding planks in favor of adoption of new procedure rules, the precedence of an English local government measure over an Irish measure, a vigorous foreign policy and moderate estimates. Churchill's reason for resigning, as stated at the cabinet council, included objections for allowing a sum for increasing the defenses of the forts and coaling stations in the [illegible]. Similar estimates had been already approved by Gladstone and Sir William Vernon Harcourt.

After the council prominent members of ministerial circles spoke of Churchill's budget [illegible] scheme which was meant to dazzle the [illegible] democracy. The ministers are confident Lord Hartington will rally his whole power in support of the government. Lord Hartington and Right Hon. Henry Chaplin arrived at the Grand hotel in Monte Carlo Monday night.

The Times says strong representations have been made by the conservative rank and file to Lord Salisbury disapproving a Hartington-Salisbury union. The Times laments the fact that such opposition to a union exists.

THE LIBERALS.

Morley has made overtures to Chamberlain to concert a platform upon which to unite the liberals. As a first condition Mr. Morley asks Mr. Chamberlain to state definitely the limits of his acceptance of the Gladstonian home rule measure.

Mr. Parnell will go to Dublin on Saturday. His health continues feeble. His mother is still attending him. He is forbidden to attempt public speaking on [illegible] incurring the risk of any excitement whatever.

NO PARLIAMENT TILL FEBRUARY.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—It is officially announced that the meeting of parliament has been postponed until February.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

TWO [illegible] DESPERADOES.

DENVER, Dec. 28.—A Trinidad special to the Times says: On Sunday two young men named George McComber and W. Weatherwax attempted to rob a storekeeper by the name of Morgan at Stonewall, thirty-five miles up the valley. They forced Morgan to throw up his hands, and while Morgan turned to reach for a revolver McComber shot him in the back. Morgan's clerk came into the store [illegible] the close of the row and was severely wounded. The murderers then fled, and were followed to [illegible] where they stopped at a house [illegible]. They were discovered by the sheriff and a posse at 6 o'clock this morning, and an attempt was made to arrest the murderers. A fight ensued, the sheriff's posse literally riddling the house with bullets, shooting McComber through [illegible] fighting. McComber, however, who is still alive, says he shot himself to avoid capture. Weatherwax gave himself up.

The Government's Investigation of Oregon Swamp Lands.

WILLAMETTE STEAMER WRECKED

President Cleveland also Said to be in Danger of Sudden Death—Chances for Admission of Territories

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The personal relations between Senator and Mrs. Logan and Senator and Mrs. Dolph were very friendly. A congressman speaking on this point remarked that had Logan ever been elected president Dolph would certainly have been a member of the cabinet.

THE FORT CANBY CABLE.

Acting on advices from the Portland board of trade and others, Congressman Herman to-day had an interview with the acting chief of the signal office as to relaying of a submarine cable across the mouth of the Columbia river. Lieut. Greely said that there was no possible fund available for the purpose, but that congress will be asked, through the deficiency bill, for an appropriation of [illegible] the house appropriation committee [illegible] officers say. The line is an important one [illegible] shipping and meteorological interests, [illegible] be re-established at the earliest possible moment.

ORE. ON SWAMP LANDS.

A report [illegible] receiving the attention of the interior department. In round numbers there are [illegible] 000 acres that the department has certified to the state [illegible] has not issued a patent thereon. This tract is a part of the selection made by Aukeny, the special agent appointed several years ago by the government to act in conjunction with the state agent. It being alleged that by bribery Aukeny falsely certified as swamp much land that was not so in reality, the government last year dispatched special agent Shackleford to investigate the charges. Acting on Shackleford's report it [illegible] that the secretary of the interior ordered the commissioner of the general land office to suspend action on all those lands until the subject could be fully investigated by him. This investigation is now in progress and the basis of the agent's reports is a certain written agreement. The persons here interested in these lands state that the agreement is one made by Aukeny and the Oregon swamp land claimants, whereby he should receive $4,000 for effecting the sale to Eastern capitalists of tracts of land claimed by Owens; that this was a legitimate transaction and was not entered into for the purpose of inducing the agent to make false certification. They hold the lands so certified as swamp. While in Oregon Shackleford secured either the original or a copy of the agreement. This is guarded here by the department as though a gold mine. The officers refuse to state its contents, but mysteriously intimate that the agreement [illegible] more than outsiders will admit. Commissioner Sparks was to-day asked to give the status of the case, but declined to say anything further than that it is undergoing careful examination. The reports of the general land office show the amount of land [illegible] patented to the state is only [illegible] 0,000 acres selected and claimed by the state, [illegible] of which only [illegible] 000 has been certified to Oregon by the government but is yet unpatented.

[illegible] ATTORNEY.

Ever since the secretary of the interior suspended action on the Oregon swamp land cases, Capt. Mullan, attorney for Oregon, has been demanding of the department that he be given the privilege to inspect special agent Shackleford's report, that he might defend the interests of the state. In a letter to Gov. Moody, which letter is in part intended as an answer to Mullan's requests, the secretary of the interior says: "In reply thereto I will state that if after careful examination I shall conclude that there is sufficient in the [illegible] to warrant calling upon the state to show cause why approval and certification of the selections embraced in list [illegible] should not be revoked and canceled, Capt. Mullan, or any authorized agent of the state, will be permitted to inspect all papers on file in this department relating to the charge and will have ample opportunity to answer and defend the same." List number five referred to embraces the [illegible] 000 acres that have been certified to the state but not patented.

THE KLAMATH RESERVATION.

In an interview with the commissioner of Indian affairs to-day, the latter told Hermann that there are now en route to Oregon three commissioners charged with the duty of making a thorough examination of affairs on the Klamath Indian reservation. The commissioner is empowered to negotiate with the Indians if they so desire with a view to their taking lands in severalty and throwing open the remainder of the reservation to settlement. Hermann has been assured that for the present at least the troops will remain at Fort Klamath.

THE TERRITORIES

Springer Says he will Work for the Admission of Four of Them

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Representative Springer says he intends to secure (if possible) the passage by the present congress of his bill to provide an enabling act for the admission of Dakota, Montana, New Mexico and Washington territories. He says it will probably not be possible to get the committee on territories to report on the bill, but that he will try to have it substituted by the house for some other territorial admission bill when the latter comes up for consideration. He thinks the demand of admitting all at once will prevent opposition on party grounds, as they will be equally divided politically and the new states will have no [illegible] in the presidential election in 1888.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

THE PRESIDENT IN DANGER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—The Bulletin's Washington special says: The president is again suffering from rheumatism; the attack being so severe as to confine him to his room. The pain is still in [illegible] the same location as the last attack, and has given the patient considerable annoyance. A physician in good standing in the profession said to your correspondent when the president was suffering from the last attack that he would not be surprised at his dropping off suddenly at any time. "You see," said the doctor, "Mr. Cleveland is a very heavy man. He is gaining flesh all the time. He takes no exercise whatever, and the methods which he has employed to reduce his adipose tissue are merely temporary in their effect. He is just of that build which makes one look for apoplexy, and a stroke in his case would probably prove fatal. Then his being subject to chronic rheumatism leads to a suspicion of some cardiac affection which is likely to be fatty degeneration."

THE PRESIDENT'S HEALTH.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Col. Lamont says the president is in improved health as compared with day before yesterday, and that his condition is steadily growing better. The president intends to rest quietly to-day, and it is thought that by the day after he will have recovered from his indisposition. Gov. Hill of New York was to have spent a few days with the President this week, but has postponed his visit owing to the president's illness and the death of Gen. Logan. The visit was to have been a purely social one.

THE WILLAMETTE'S WRATH

The New Steamer N. S. Bentley Wrecked on the Railroad Bridge at Albany

ALBANY, Dec. 28.—Last Saturday Capt. Smith brought the Oregon Pacific railroad company's splendid new steamer N. S. Bentley up from Oregon City loaded with wheat. Sunday he started back for another load, but when he reached Salem was unable to pass under the bridge and hence had to return. At Salem he took on four [illegible] tons of old iron, waste paper and bones and finished loading with wheat at Independence and Aukeny's landing. He then came on to this city and upon landing at the wharf was handed a dispatch by T. B. West, superintendent of the bridge, from the company's office at Corvallis instructing him to proceed to the bridge and assist a scow which was in danger of drift. He remonstrated with Mr. West, telling him it was not safe to go with his boat so heavily [illegible]; rather than disobey orders, however, he [illegible] the result was disastrous. As he neared the bridge, going down stern first, the swift current caught the boat and hurled it against the center pier with a terrific crash, the boat striking nearly amidships, and so hard that the passengers were thrown from their feet. A great hole was knocked in her side, and in a moment's time the lower deck was filled with water and the engines stopped. She was left to the mercy of the swift current, but luckily she veered towards the shore and a line thrown out was secured and fastened. She soon sank, where she now lies in [illegible] feet of water, the rapid current rushing through her windows. The Three Sisters came down and took off all the furniture from the upper deck, but all the freight, including about [illegible]00 bushels of wheat, is submerged in the water. Twenty passengers, including six ladies, were on board, but all escaped without injury. The news spread rapidly and before night the wreck was visited by over 1000 people. The wheat was recently purchased by W. F. Crosby for Moore, Ferguson & Co. of San Francisco, and was insured. The Bentley was a new vessel throughout, having been finished only last month in Portland at a cost of about $16,000. She is settling slowly, and if the water continues to rise will probably prove a total loss. It will prove a hard blow to the company, which, with their one steamer, will not be able to handle near the freight which they desire.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS

WILL NOT ARBITRATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—An important event bearing on the present trouble between the Sutter and Geary street cable companies and their employes has just been made public. It was a conference held between the representatives of the railroad companies on one side and Mayor Bartlett and the police commissioners on the other. The commissioners pointed out the heavy cost entailed on the city in protecting the roads, the unprotected condition of a large part of the city and the heavy duties imposed upon the police by the present condition of things. Mayor Bartlett suggested that some compromise be effected through a city committee of arbitration. The street-car representatives, however, refused to agree to any outside interference to bring about a compromise, and the conference adjourned without accomplishing anything. It is estimated that the loss to the [illegible] as they are now operated is $700 a day to the Sutter [illegible] and $300 a day to the Geary street line. Both roads are running as usual this morning, and the officials do not apprehend any further immediate trouble.

THE [illegible].

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—A sensational development in the street car trouble occurred to-day on the Geary street line. An oiler who descended a manhole in the course of his duties on the road, near Van Ness avenue, found two dynamite cartridges with a fuse attached in the tunnel through which the cable runs under the track. A further search was made, and two more of these destructive agents were found. It is believed that the cartridges were placed in the tunnel on Sunday night in readiness to be exploded yesterday morning, when the assault was made on the employes of the road, and that the presence of the police and the determined fight they made prevented the consummation of the dastardly scheme. The amount [illegible] secreted under the track was sufficient not only to blow up the road bed and any car which might have been over it, but would have caused immense damage to property in the vicinity. The matter has been placed in the hands of the authorities.

THE RIPARIAN TROUBLE.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 28.—A report is in circulation here that a compromise has been effected between Miller & Lux, riparian owners, and J. B. Haggin and Carr. It is stated that the settlement was made on the following basis: That Miller & Lux are to be entitled at all seasons to one-third of the flow of the Kern river, which third Haggin & Carr agree to deliver through a ditch to the lands of the former, and that both parties are to accept and maintain the decision of the supreme court as delivered by Judge McKinstry. Senator Cox, of the firm of Cox & Clarke of this city, who are largely concerned in the case, to-day denied that a settlement had been made.

STANFORD PROPOSES WAR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Rumors are being circulated to the effect that all the roads in the city will be tied up should no settlement be arrived at with the Geary and Sutter street companies within the next few days. In relation to the probability [illegible] Market street tie up, a communication was sent by the directors of the road to Senator Stanford at Washington. His reply was: "Should a tie-up occur under the present circumstances, tie up the road for a year if necessary. Run enough cars, however, to keep the franchise."

NOT STOLEN BUT BURIED ALIVE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Little Artie Frazer, the 4-year-old boy who was missed from his home in April 19 of this year, was found to-day buried in the sand near his home. The body was found by laborers who were excavating. It is supposed that Artie was playing in the sand and that the bank fell in on him and buried him. A great stir was made at the time of his disappearance. It was supposed at the time that the boy had been stolen, and a large reward was offered by the parents for his recovery.

HURRICANE AT CAPE MENDOCINO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—The signal service reports a severe hurricane at Cape Mendocino, the wind blowing eighty-four miles an hour from the southeast. Rain has fallen from the Sacramento valley northward, and sprinkles have occurred in the vicinity of San Francisco and Sacramento. [illegible] storm signals are displayed from the mouth of the Columbia river to the Fuca straits. The storm center is near Cape Mendocino.

SEEKING THE MAYOR'S AID.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—A deputation of striking carmen held a conference with Mayor Bartlett to obtain his services in arbitrating the present troubles with the car companies yesterday. Nothing could be learned, however, of the result of the consultation.

CALIFORNIA

TWO MISSISSIPPI STEAMERS BURNED.

CAIRO, Ill., Dec. 28.—Fire at 5 o'clock this morning destroyed the Mississippi Valley Transportation company's steamer R. S. Hayes and four barges and the Anchor line steamer City of Natchez, while lying at the bank. The fire is supposed to have originated in the after cabin of the Hayes, which soon spread over the whole boat, burning her to the water's edge. The fire also spread to the Natchez, lying just below the Hayes, and in a few minutes she, too, was a mass of flames. The barges which were alongside the Hayes, loaded with cotton, soda ash and sundries, also took fire and were completely destroyed. Nothing but burned hulls remain. The City of Natchez was built at Jeffersonville three years ago and was valued at $100,000. She was one of the finest boats on the Mississippi. The Hayes was built by a valley company about five years ago, and was valued at $60,000. The loss of the barges and contents will make the loss reach about a million dollars. The insurance is not known at present. A strong northwest wind at the time of the fire held the boats into the bank and prevented the tugs from saving the fleet. Two barges lying on the outside of those burned were cut loose and towed to a safe harbor by the tugs. The wrecked burning hulls are being towed to the other side of the river and beached.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE G. A. R.

Special Order No. 3.

To the Grand Army posts of the country: The commander-in-chief with great sorrow announces the death of Comrade John A. Logan, who departed this life on Sunday, December 26, at Washington. One of the very first to become an active worker in the ranks of the G. A. R., he continued to the end of his eventful and most efficient life to give his best efforts for the good of the order. Always brave, patriotic and honest, life closes amid the tears and lamentations of the people of the great republic which he did so much to preserve. His memory will continue to be the richest inheritance of his old comrades of the Union army. At the funeral ceremonies wherever they will be held will be found thousands of his old comrades gathered to pay the last sad tribute of respect for a gallant soldier whom they so dearly loved.

THE PHILADELPHIA THEATER FIRE.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—The Temple Theater fire was gotten under control about 5 o'clock last night, the flames having been kept within the walls of the theater building, and the contents are completely destroyed, and portions of the front and back wall are standing, but will have to be taken down when a new building is erected. Mr. [illegible] originally paid for ground and building $225,000, and expended $175,000 on remodeling the structure and $[illegible] for fixtures in the interior. On these losses there is insurance amounting to $[illegible]5,000. The losses to the several tenants will aggregate $10,000. [illegible] insured. No effort will be made to-night to reach the unfortunate firemen, their bodies being buried under twenty feet of brick and stone.

DEATH OF ASHBETH BARNEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Ashbeth Barney, well known as one of the early founders of the express business in this country, died here to-day from an affection of the heart. He had been out of active business for two or three years. He was at one time president of Wells, Fargo & Co. and the United States Express Co. He was one of the [illegible] who started the pony express from St. Joseph, Mo., to San Francisco.

ARRIVAL OF [illegible] BLACK.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Pensacola, Florida, says: The Norwegian bark Winona from Para arrived here to-day. During the voyage seven cases of yellow fever occurred on the vessel, two of which resulted fatally. The board of health has ordered the vessel to quarantine.

A MARRIAGE POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Tribune's Pittsburg special says: It is authoritatively reported that had not the death of Gen. Logan occurred, Miss Edith Andrews, daughter of the millionaire C. H. Andrews of Youngstown, Ohio, and John A. Logan, Jr., would have been married early in the spring.

MRS. HAIGHT ARRESTED.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 28.—Mrs. Haight, wife of the express robber arrested here Christmas day, left for St. Louis to-night in charge of a detective. She is thought to have aided in planning the robbery and to have $1,000 in her possession.

OUR ANNUAL REVIEW

The materials for THE OREGONIAN'S annual review, to appear January 1, are in an advanced state of preparation. Great labor has been expended upon the details, which will be more complete than any hitherto published. The review will cover the Northwest in general and Portland in particular; it will give a detail of of the activities of the year and the results of industry and business, and altogether will present a record of interest and value to the country. Advertisers who desire space should send in their announcements at once.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 29, 1886.

REPUBLICANISM AS A CURE FOR SOCIALISM.

One of the ablest examinations of "socialism" that recent discussion has produced is presented in The Church Review for December, the well-known magazine of the Protestant Episcopal church in America. The author of the article is Rev. Dr. Greer, who begins with a fair statement of what socialism claims for itself. He presents a rapid sketch of the aims and methods of the modern socialistic movement, trying throughout to represent them at their best, and not at their worst. "Socialism," he says, "in the best and truest sense of the word, is neither violence nor fanaticism, but a deep, strong, conscientious, and as yet but partially formulated movement towards an attempted readjustment upon a more humanitarian basis of the present inequalities of our economic condition." In this sense it is a philanthropic effort. Wealth accumulates, but the number of poor is not diminishing, and in many countries the rate of pauperism to the whole population is steadily increasing. The tendency of modern industrial methods is to increase instead of diminish the disparity between poverty and wealth, for, as John Stuart Mill says: "It is questionable whether all the mechanical inventions yet made have lightened the day's toil of any human being; they have simply enabled the same population to live the same life of drudgery and imprisonment, and an increased number of manufacturers and others to make fortunes."

Even if it be granted that this is true, Dr. Greer very justly asks, "What is the socialistic remedy?" The socialistic movement, as he has already remarked, has not yet fully formulated itself, and there remains some diversity of opinion among socialists themselves as to the best method of proceeding. But upon two points there seems now to be substantial agreement among them. First, that private property in land should be abolished, and second, that in place of the present method of free competition in production and distribution of wealth, the state should take charge of the entire apparatus of industrialism, including the instruments of production and the capital necessary to employ them; that personal requirements should be made known through public channels and satisfied by labor applied to public resources, and that in the distribution each should share in the work he has actually done.

These two points are examined separately. As to land, the socialistic philosophy asserts that private property in it is not just, because land was not created by man's exertions. If landowners have a valid right to the surface of the globe, it follows that those who are not landowners have no right at all to its surface; they can exist upon the earth by sufferance only; they are all trespassers, and, should the others see fit to deny them a resting place, the landless persons might be expelled from the earth altogether. Equity, therefore, does not permit property in land. Again, private property in land is the reason, or one of the chief reasons, why the material progress which marks this age does not benefit the whole body of society; why a greater poverty is all the while being developed side by side with an augmenting wealth. The surplus profits of our improved and improving industrialism, instead of adding to the value of labor, are absorbed and congested in rent. Hence, private property in land must be abolished.

The argument then is that land, not being a product of human industry, cannot justly be claimed and held as private property. What follows? asks Dr. Greer. The first fact that presents itself is that nearly all the valuable properties in land are the result of industry. Labor is necessary to clear the land for cultivation, to make it productive and fruitful, and to keep it so, to drain it, to fertilize it, to protect it with fences, to utilize it with buildings; and these exertions cannot be separated from the soil on which they are bestowed; and further than that a sufficient time must elapse, and often a very long time, before these exertions can issue in profitable result. The holder of the land will not make these exertions or cause them to be made unless he can have assurance of abidingness of tenure. Either the individual must own the land outright with an absolute tenure, subject, of course, to such reasonable restrictions as may be imposed by the state, in the exercise of its right of eminent domain, or else the state must own it outright, and the individual must simply be a tenant to the state, which holds the land in trust for the general public. Here, says Dr. Greer, is the very first principle of feudalism—that individuals have no right to property in the soil! It is another illustration of the fact that great extremes always meet. Socialism is extreme democracy, and it turns at once to an absolute despotism.

And this is true not only as to the first proposition of socialism. It is also true as to the second. Public organization, in the production and distribution of wealth, is to be substituted by socialism for private enterprise. Here the review writer answers with the same argument so often presented by THE OREGONIAN, namely, that it would extinguish individualism, and individualism cannot be eliminated from human society. Again, under any scheme that authorized personal requirements to be made known through public channels, and provided a distribution in which each should share in the result according to the work that he has done, it is plain enough that there would be more concern with the distribution of wealth than with the production of it.

One of the most valuable parts of Dr. Greer's essay is his contention that republicanism provides a remedy for such evils not remediless, as socialism complains of, and hence socialism, in the form in which it prevails in countries of the Old World, is not likely to obtain strong lodgment here. Republicanism undertakes the adjustment of the inequalities of landed property, not by the abolition, but by the distribution of tenure by passage of laws to regulate the descent and transmission of property, making it easy of transfer, of alienation and division, hoping thereby to secure something like a fair average apportionment throughout society. Republicanism tries to work the problem with individualism in it. It causes every voice to be heard; it brings out and emphasizes and sets a value upon every personal unit throughout the whole range of society. Seeing that individualism must not and cannot be eliminated from the problem, it furnishes the individual with every opportunity to become a property-owner. It places the public lands of the country within reach of his easy acquirement. It puts no obstacles of birth or artificial circumstances in the way of his rising. It yields its highest positions and best emoluments to industry and self-respect. And hence, concludes this admirable writer, we see why it is that we have had as yet so little socialism in this country. Republicanism has headed it off. Our efforts as a people, then, should be for a republicanism, not in name and form merely, but for a republicanism in which every industrious and capable man may become, according to his measure, a prosperous and successful man, and in which only the idle, the lazy and the vicious go to the wall. In such a republicanism, not in socialism, lies the hope of our future as a people.

The New York World says that one of the lessons of the Campbell divorce trial is that "aristocracy, even of the genuine sort, is a very poor thing to worship or to ape." Also, that "the pretensions of hereditary rulers have received a blow in revelations of this trial which will hasten their downfall, and thus good will come out of evil." This is a statement in another form of the same fact already presented by THE OREGONIAN in justification of the publicity given by all the newspapers of the world to these revelations of the real character of distinguished representatives of the class who set themselves up as the rightful lords of mankind.

WITHOUT DISTINCTION OF SEX.

Governor Hill of New York has been strongly appealed to in behalf of Mrs. Druse, who unless he commutes her sentence, will be hung to day. The New York Sun and the Albany Evening Journal both urge the commutation of her sentence. The woman murdered her husband in a most cruel manner. She shot him in presence of her children, and, despite his pleadings for mercy, finished him, cut his body up with an ax and tried to burn the remains in the stove. If Mrs. Druse had ever read of Lucrezia Borgia or Brinvilliers she would have done her work more neatly and with less chance of conviction, for it is next to impossible in these days of expert chemist testimony to persuade a jury to convict a prisoner since, unless the jury buy the poison, administer it and see the victim die, they are not likely, in the confusion of so-called expert scientific testimony, to admit that anybody has been poisoned. There is no doubt of the woman's guilt, but the evidence on trial showed that she had suffered fifteen years of wearing and terrible abuse at the hands of the husband, so-called, whom she so mercilessly murdered. The judge on the trial told the jury that the murdered man "had for years left his wife and children unprovided for, humiliated and in cruel want," and the evidence proved that his conduct towards his murderess had been brutal in the extreme.

The sentence probably would have been lighter but for the fact that the woman, her daughter and a nephew attempted to cut up and destroy the remains by fire, in order to conceal the crime. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Druse compelled her nephew to shoot her husband at the breakfast table, then she and the daughter furnished him with a hatchet, and after the body was burned the children carted off the ashes and bones and dumped them out of sight. While the man was being murdered he kept crying out, "Don't, Roxy!" but Roxy never flinched until she had her decapitated and dismembered victim in the stove. And this is the creature that the New York Sun and the Albany Evening Journal want Gov. Hill to save from the scaffold.

The Burnham Wardwell Prison and Asylum association have also adopted resolutions in favor of commuting the death sentence of this desperate woman. The Sun and the Albany Evening Journal do not plead extenuating circumstances. The plea made for Mrs. Druse is that "public sentiment is averse to the execution of a woman, no matter how great or how clearly proven her crime. It is more than a generation since any woman criminal has been executed in New York, and "probably no jury would find a woman guilty of murder if it expected that she would be hanged."

> Has not a time arrived in the history of civilization when strangling a woman with a rope in a semi public manner for any crime should cease as a vindication of law? There is a legal grave covered with iron and stone instead of turf where the condemned are as dead to society as though already strangled with a rope. No voice will be raised in angry expostulation if the prison doors close upon this awful criminal once for all by the dread sentence—imprisonment for life.

This reasoning is worthless, that is if there is any force to it it applies as forcibly to a man as to a woman. The state, so long as it continues to hang men for murder, must continue to hang women. It cannot afford to discriminate on the ground of sex any more than it can afford to discriminate on the ground of color or religion, in executing the death penalty. If it is better to hang a man who murders his wife and burns her body to conceal the crime, than it is to bury him in a legal grave covered with iron and stone, then it is better to hang a woman than to imprison her for life. Law can take into account circumstance, premeditation, provocation, but law cannot consider sex any more than a soldier can consider sex when a squaw faces him with a rifle, or when a female fury runs amuck with a pistol, a dagger and a torch. Once fix the precedent that a woman can commit no murder however horrible, that will cost her any severer punishment than life imprisonment, and the safety of society would be as much endangered as it would be if the same rule of clemency for capital crimes were established for men. Capital punishment is worth something or nothing. If it is worth executing in the case of men, it is worth just as much in the case of women, and therefore we believe that the right to be hanged for murder ought to be enforced as one of the inalienable rights of the female assassin. The so-called legal grave of life imprisonment is a thing of fancy rather than fact. Two men, in Oregon, clearly guilty of murder in the first degree, have recently been convicted of murder in the second degree. That means a nominal sentence of life imprisonment, but really means a pardon by the executive in less than ten years. Coddling criminals, under sentence for revolting crimes is one of the signs of dangerous tendencies in America. Murderers of the repulsive type of Cluverius, who is to be hanged at Richmond, Va., for the murder of his cousin whom he seduced, get flowers and all sorts of tokens of sympathy and regard. The like has been witnessed here. It is just as bad in New York City, and its manifestation ought to be prohibited by law, that is, no person ought to be allowed to lionize a murderer standing under the gallows. The Druse murder, as a bit of family conspiracy, was last July reproduced in France in the village of Luneau, where a woman 70 years old was thrown alive into a fire and kept there until she burned to death. Her murderers were her two sons, her daughter and son in law, who killed her for the sake of a few francs she had saved. They sent for the local priest and had their victim "confessed" before they put her on the fire, and "confessed" themselves after the murder. The French court promptly sent the daughter and husband to the guillotine, one son to the galleys for life and the other for twenty years. That is the way French law disposes of persons like Mrs. Druse. There are altogether too many homicides freed by juries and governors, and alleged insanity is the most influential in the world to disprove, whether it is offered for a murderer or for a Sunday school teacher who has swindled a financial trust or corrupted a pupil. Momentary insanity, or homicidal insanity, is the successful plea of fellows who are either artful scoundrels or fools that the world were better rid of. Mad dogs should be shot before philanthropists are suffered to invoke clemency for their moral irresponsibility for hydrophobia. The law when it stoops to refine on the subject so far as to endorse the theory of momentary insanity, or incautiously to accept as a defense the claim of intermittent homicidal insanity, will fail in its primal purpose of protection and homicidal lunatics will multiply as fast as paupers when the yoke of the poor house is easy, because the burden is light. It is said that when a certain English lord heard of the passage of a bill repealing the law which had fixed death as the penalty for five-shilling thefts his lordship wept at the mere thought of the flood of immorality and crime which must follow the removal of so wholesome a restriction.

That day of absurd barbarity is gone never to return; but it would be dangerous for society to run to the other extreme, and say that no crime, however atrocious, shall be punished by the death penalty. That would only be a standing invitation for Judge Lynch to hold a general term.

It is a pity the law in San Francisco has not authority and power enough to afford the protection necessary to keep the street cars in operation. Gangs of lawless men, who have abandoned the service of the car lines, are permitted to interrupt the movements of cars and beat the employes. The force necessary to prevent or put a stop to work like this ought always to be exerted at the very beginning. It is not unlikely now that the lawless acts in San Francisco will continue—owing to neglect to employ proper measures—till the rioting gathers force and a lot of people get killed. Vigorous measures of prevention in such cases are always better. The strikers, who have left the service of the car lines, have no business about the cars, and should not be permitted to molest those who are running them.

"A VILE PHRASE."

The New York Times, the World remarks, accepts as a very "acute and just analysis" of the case of Col. Stone, who was removed by the president for making political speeches, this observation of a Pittsburg democratic politician: "Unless he desired to be suspended, was it proper for him to champion the cause of a party that is in opposition to the administration of which he is a servant?"

Against this statement the World rightly protests, saying there could not be a phrase that embodied more completely the cardinal error of the spoils principle than the one here used in characterizing federal officials as "servants of the administration." Public officials are servants of the government—that is to say, of the people. Their loyalty, their fidelity and their service are to the government, not to the persons charged for the time being with the administration.

No mugwump journal that has fallen under our notice has presented so sound a view of the relations of officials to party, administration and government as the democratic World has herein presented. And the same journal goes on to say that "it is against this assumption and the evil practices that have naturally grown out of it that the civil service reform movement is directed. It aims to make the public service true to its name and not a party machine. It seeks to free the public servants from subserviency to politicians and confine them to the unobtrusive and unobstructed exercise of their individual political duties. And so, with the World, we are surprised to find a mugwump organ of the president approving of a reference to public servants "as servants of the administration." It is, as Polonius said, "a vile phrase."

Senator Saulsbury, of Delaware, has introduced a bill for a more stringent naturalization law. It provides that only after five years' residence can the rights of citizenship be acquired, and that a first formal application must be made two years before the right to vote may be granted.

DISTRICT TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

OREGON CITY, Dec 28

The institute convened promptly at 10 o'clock A. M. Monday, December 27. After some appropriate remarks by the state superintendent, he made the following appointments: Reporting secretaries, E. C. Hackett, Chas Davis, J B Horner; committee on introduction, Prof Royal and Supt. D T. May.

Prof J Burnham, of the Couch school illustrated his methods in teaching numbers.

J B Horner, of Roseburg, of the public school, spoke on penmanship.

AFTERNOON

Prof E C Hackett, of Oregon City, continued the discussion of penmanship.

Then Prof J Burnham lectured on map drawing.

The lecture delivered on "Familiar Science" by Prof. R. K. Warren was very instructive.

Prof Frank Rigler, of Portland, explained some excellent methods of teaching history. He was followed by Prof M G. Lane, of Salem.

The subject of school apparatus was discussed by ex-Supt. Baird, of Clackamas county.

Prof Royal, of Oregon City, explained many facts concerning the tellurean.

"What incentives to study should be appealed to?" was discussed by J B Horner, H Anderson, Miss Messerve, Mrs Buck, S J Oglesby, Charles Davis, M G Lane, F Rigler, Z M Parvin and C C Brewer.

In the evening Pres T F Ellis of Pacific university delivered an able lecture on "Humbugs," and Rev M L Rugg, of Salem, delivered an able lecture upon "The Teachers' Mission."

TUESDAY

The subject of "Rewards or no Rewards of Merit" was discussed by J B Horner, Miss Messerve, D T Stanley, Browen, Anderson, F Rigler, M G Lane, Oglesby, T T Vincent.

Prof Rigler discussed methods of teaching history.

T H Crawford, city superintendent of Portland schools, read a carefully prepared paper on "Exhibitions and Literary Exercises in Public Schools." He was followed by Miss Messerve, Mrs Buck, Mr Rand, J T Gregg and M G Lane.

In the afternoon Prof. Idaru Royal introduced drawing and, with the assistance of some of his pupils exhibited some excellent work. The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with lectures and discussions, and it was announced that there would be an entertainment given in evening. The institute closes with to-day's work. It was a success from the beginning. About seventy teachers have attended the institute during the past two days.

EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

TRAFFIC BY BOAT.—Last night at [illegible] the steamer Mountain Queen, which went on the Cascades route in place of the Bonita, arrived here with the passengers, baggage and mail of the Pacific Express due yesterday morning. She took them on at Warrendale, three miles below the Cascades. She leaves at 7 o'clock this morning with east bound passengers and mails, no train having been sent out from here yesterday afternoon. Her captain reported the temperature in the neighborhood of the freezing point, a light down stream wind and occasionally slight drizzling rain, but no snow. The telegraph line was up for only half an hour yesterday and there was no definite news as to the depth of snow on the track above and below Multnomah falls. A snow plow preceding the west bound passenger train got stuck for a time near Horsetail falls, but is supposed to have made her way through about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The line from the Cascades to The Dalles is clear. The train which left here Monday afternoon for the East got through all right, arriving at Wallula Junction only fifty minutes late. From this it is judged that the snow fall is not great. Probably the snow plow was held by a slide at Horsetail falls. There was no ice in the Columbia last night, so to-day's passengers will be taken to The Dalles by boat via the old portage. Passengers from the East will take the boat at The Dalles this morning, arriving here about 6 P. M.

MURDERER ARRESTED.—Sheriff T C Watts of Columbia county on Monday afternoon arrested Tom Sullivan, who killed Merrill Blanchard at Rainier Sunday morning. After the killing Sullivan went to his cabin seven miles back of Rainier and lay down. He offered no resistance when the sheriff came and volunteered no statement concerning the crime. Sheriff Watts took the prisoner to St Helens, where he will have a preliminary examination to-day. There were no witnesses to the stabbing, though a man and a boy saw the beginning of the quarrel between the men which ended in Blanchard's death. From what can be learned, Sullivan deliberately sought to kill Blanchard. On Sunday evening Sullivan, who was on a "mean drunk," insisted upon sleeping on the porch of Mrs. Dibble's house, where Blanchard lives. Mrs Dibble is his sister. Blanchard fired him, and Sullivan showing fight, it became necessary for Blanchard, who was a very strong athletic man, to punish him severely with blows. Next morning Sullivan lay in wait for him some time and then provoked him to quarrel. Mr Blanchard was 28 years old, a half-brother of Dean Blanchard, and came to the West from Maine a few years ago. Until recently he had lived at Seattle. Sullivan was a sailor and left the sea about four months ago, when he came to Rainier and worked in shingle mills and logging camps. He is about 30 years old.

APPEALS TAKEN.—Notice of appeal to the supreme court was filed yesterday in the case of George W. Philbrick vs P C Smith and T J O'Connor, from the decree of Judge Stearns, rendered December 6. By this it was ordered that the deed of Smith to O'Connor of January 29, 1886, be declared fraudulent and void, and otherwise a mortgage of $1850 on lots 6 and 7, block 86, Couch addition, and that the same be sold to satisfy the mortgage and Philbrick's judgment for damages. T J O'Connor takes the appeal. In the case of the state of Oregon ex rel., S G Reed vs Elijah Smith, C. J Smith and L. B Seeley, an appeal has been taken by the defendants; also the case of S G Reed vs. Elijah Smith. This is the Oregon Iron and Steel company directorship muddle. The grounds of the appeal are errors in the court's rulings and findings of facts and conclusions of law. In the case of Josiah West vs E A and James Taylor, plaintiff appeals to the supreme court from the dismissal by the state circuit court of his complaint July 3, 1886.

FAILED TO CONVICT.—Hibbs, the former postmaster at Lewiston, who accumulated a small fortune by means of forged money orders, has had another trial, and again has the jury failed to convict. The case was tried in the United States court for the northern district of Idaho, in Lewiston, before Judge Norman Buck and a Lewiston jury. The trial began on the 14th and lasted nearly two weeks. The prosecution was conducted by Col. James Hawley, United States district attorney, and his deputy, A Quackenbush. The defense was in the hands of Frank Ganahl and I N Maxwell, and a strong and effective fight was made for the defendant. The jury hung and was discharged. It is hard to tell whether Hibbs will be tried again or not.

HE HELPED HIS NEIGHBOR.—Mr H C Smithson now carries his right hand in a sling and mourns the loss of the end of his index finger. He saw a neighbor trying to put a wooden curb into his well and hastened to assist him, and in doing so the end of his finger was caught between the curb and the pump and cut off as clean as a whistle. He went to Dr Holt Wilson, who treated the injured digit with cocaine and forceps, gracefully rounding the end, Mr Smithson being able to assist in the operation, which was perfectly painless. He now wished he had put on some cocaine before he went to help with the curb. Oh, help your neighbor if you can; he'll do the same by you.

LOOSE SCOW.—One of the scows used in the construction of the Morrison street bridge was missing yesterday morning. It was soon ascertained that it was tied up near the North Pacific company's sawmill, in charge of one of the employes of Caputo & Zanello. It seems that this man had gone on board the scow at dusk to hang out a light and that he soon after noticed that she had gone adrift. He immediately pursued it in a boat and overtook it near the lower end of town and secured it. A steamer was sent down and the scow towed back. There was nothing missing from her. It is thought that the cable holding the scow to the pier was cut, but it may have been broken.

STUFFED BIRDS.—There is quite a business done here in shipping the skins of Oregon birds to the East, where our grouse and quail are considered as very handsome birds. Captain T Douglas, the well known taxidermist, has just received an order for 100 quail skins and a lot of grouse skins. He left yesterday for Southern Oregon to secure the birds to fill the order. Captain Douglas has lately mounted some canvas back and other species of ducks for members of the Rod and Gun club. A canvas back in his best clothes makes a very handsome specimen, to say nothing of the meat furnished by his carcass.

STOLE LIMES.—Lime juice is considered beneficial to the health. It is a good anti-scorbutic and is a part of the regulation stores of every British ship, being served out to the crew to offset the deleterious effects of a salt-horse diet and lack of vegetables. There is evidently some fellow around town who has gone short on lime juice, for yesterday morning, when a basket of limes was set out in front of Capt Morgan's fruit stand, it was carried off while the clerk turned round. The thief is probably taking sour in his night along, and his health is doubtless improving rapidly. He is most likely an old lime juicer.

TIMELY DISCOVERY.—Early yesterday morning one of the carrier boys of THE OREGONIAN, while engaged in making his usual rounds, noticed smoke emanating from the O R & N Co's building at Front and D streets. Investigation revealed the fact that there was a fire in the rear of the office of the Northwestern Trading company. Some hot ashes and cinders had been placed in the ash barrel the night previous, causing the barrel to catch fire, which communicated to the floor underneath. The boy notified the janitor of the building, who soon managed to put the fire out with the aid of a small hose.

FOUND THE HAY.—Deputy U S Marshal Charles Frush arrived here yesterday safe and sound. He went to Linkville and crossed over the Cascades to a point near where Nevada, California and Oregon join. He found no snow anywhere, not even on the summit of the Cascades, but plenty of mud. The grass is green in the ranges and the cattle looking fine. Mr Frush found the hay he went after and attached it and left a man in charge. There is about 100 tons of it and he is going out on some fellow's swamp place, of course it was [illegible] hay worth about $8 per ton.

REDUCED RATES TO SALEM.—Arrangements have been made with the O & C R R by which persons attending the state hop party at Salem to-night will only be charged one fare for the round trip. For reduced tickets, however, it will be necessary to apply at the office at the foot of F street, as such tickets will not be on sale at the East Portland office. A sleeper will be attached to the evening train and will remain at Salem over night, returning to Portland by the early train the morning following.

KILLED BY A KICK.—Monday afternoon of this week Martin Smith, a son of James Smith, a wealthy farmer living near West Union, Washington county, about seven miles from Hillsboro, was riding horseback and driving some horses. Young Smith was thrown and his animal kicked him on the head, fracturing the skull. Death ensued in a short time. He was aged 4 years, was a young man of excellent character and quite a favorite in the neighborhood.

DANGEROUS FALL.—Fred Hollenback, a mill hand, while crossing a trestle near Weidler's mill about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon slipped and fell through to the ground below, a distance of fourteen feet. He was picked up and taken to the Good Samaritan hospital, where on examination he was found to have received severe internal injuries, principally in the region of the abdomen. His condition is considered critical.

POLICE COURT.—Yesterday in the police court Jonathan Rice was fined $5 for assault and battery on George Martin. The case of Capt Idleman of assault and battery on James McCaffrey was continued until to-day; also that of George Price and Charles Harris, accused of fighting. Bail money was forfeited in a number of minor cases, and a number of street roamers and beggars were sent below for from ten to twenty days.

THE A O U W DEATH RATE.—During the six months just ended there were sixteen deaths in the Ancient Order of United Workmen in the district embracing Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and $0 from each member paid for the sixteen death assessments. Eight deaths occurred in Oregon, five in Washington and three in British Columbia. The membership in this jurisdiction is 3600, of whom 2000 reside in Oregon.

AT IT AGAIN.—Monday Mrs Riordan was released from the county jail, having finished serving out a ten days' sentence for breaking a window in Fox's saloon. She immediately proceeded to get gloriously drunk and was arrested by Policeman Hand. The police judge is at a loss what to do with her. She was once in the asylum, but not being crazy enough to keep was released.

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE.—W T Henry, of the Whatcom & Seattle railway postoffice, has been appointed chief clerk of the railway mail service, with headquarters at Portland, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Capt. B B Tuttle in July last. Mr Henry will report for duty about January 1.

FLOWER MISSION.—The semi-annual meeting of the Children's Flower Mission will be held at 10 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning in the Unitarian chapel. As election of officers is to take place, a full attendance of members is specially desired.

THE EAST SIDE.

Garrard Gathers in His Wife—Reception—Tramps on Deck Again—Personal and General Notes

East Portland folks have been watching the case of the missing woman, Ida Garrard, with intense interest. The husband has been making a vigorous search for her, and repeatedly inquired at every public house in East Portland and chased a vision over in Portland. It now transpires that all this time the woman has been at the house of Mrs. Moody, Asylum and Eleventh streets, where she was trying to conceal herself from her husband. This morning Mrs Moody, fearing trouble might ensue should Mrs. G. be found at her house, took the woman to the Home hotel, where her husband soon found her. They were soon seen walking through the streets during the day, he (the husband) keeping his weather eye peeled lest she should vanish like a will o' the wisp. In the evening they were seen in a buggy, and it is fair to presume they have gone home. She charged him with cruelty and other offenses, and told Mrs Moody she would never go home. When asked how she could have forsaken her four little children, she said her husband always took good care of them. There are several strange circumstances in this matter that would bear investigation, but if the twain go home and sin no more the public should be satisfied to let it rest.

LADIES RELIEF SOCIETY.

The officers of the Ladies Relief society desire all members who are delinquent on their subscriptions to settle as soon as they can, and especially between now and next Tuesday, at which time will occur the annual meeting and election of officers. It is the intention of of the ladies to improve upon past plans and make future work more effective and thorough.

RECEPTION.

Mr and Mrs Burdick, the newly wedded couple, gave their friends a reception to-day at the cottage home in Tibbetts addition. There was a large attendance and all expressed themselves as having been entertained in a most cordial manner. Mrs Burdick proved herself a lady of culture by the elegant manner with which she made her guests at home. Before coming to Oregon she acquired rare proficiency, both as a teacher and a musician. Mr Burdick has made many friends since living here. He has been engaged in Portland with Corbett & Failing for nine years, and by gentlemanly bearing has attached the warm friendship of many over the river, who are gratified to witness his present happiness.

IN STEPHENS ADDITION.

The Christmas tree and entertainment of the Baptist mission church Tuesday night in Stephens addition went off to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. "The Old Old Story" was recited by a class of ten young ladies—the class of Mr Hahn—in a manner worthy of special mention. The other exercises were equally interesting.

HANDSOME CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

On Friday afternoon last, just before the close of the East Portland High school for the holidays, Prof W A Wetzell, the principal, was presented by the pupils with a very handsome gold headed cane as a token of their sincere regard for him as their instructor and principal. On the head of the cane was engraved the following: "Presented to Prof W A Wetzel by the members of the East Portland High school, December 25, 1886." The professor in a few feeling remarks returned his sincere thanks for the gift, and assured them of his kind wishes for their future happiness and success through life.

MASONIC INSTALLATION.

The installation of officers of Washington lodge No 46 A. F. & A. M., took place at their hall in this city Monday evening. Past Master S. R. Harrington officiating as installing officer, Past Master W H Moore as master of ceremonies. The following were the officers installed: John F Boynton, W M; Philip Flood, S W; W B Hall, J W; F S Dunning, treas; S R Harrington, sec; Geo H Fox, S D; H F McMillan, J D; P Grady and W B Steele, stewards.

R. & S. M. INSTALLATION.

The officers elect of Washington council No 3, R. & S. M., were duly installed into office by Past Thrice Illustrious Master George McDowell Stroud, assisted by Past Dept. Master John F. Boynton. The names of the officers were given in THE OREGONIAN the day after the election.

NOTES.

The Band of Hope will not hold any meetings until after the holidays.

The authorities took in three tramps last night. One remarked that he wanted thirty or sixty days in jail.

Send in your orders for the New Year's edition of THE OREGONIAN. C M Rankin, agent, will take them.

It is a delight to mention that Rev. [illegible] D. Driver, pastor of the M E church, received a fine new silk hat as a Christmas present from his friends.

It is stated that the deputy prosecuting attorney will have the parties who have tried to defame the East Portland postmistress arrested and the case investigated in the justice court in a day or two.

The Spiritualists have opened a free reading room on the corner of Fourth and H streets. The room is opened Wednesday and Sunday nights each week. Papers of various kinds are on the files.

Critz & Lambert have moved into their new quarters on Fourth between I and J. The East side reporter and route agent will have their headquarters with this firm, and anything intended for them can be left at this office.

Christmas hangs on very tenaciously in East Portland. Last night the Congregational church, Holladay's addition, gave their annual entertainment and supper. The exercises were musical and literary. The Baptist church also gave their entertainment last night.

BRIEF MENTION.

The Tivoli is running to good business this week with new attractions.

It must have stormed furiously off the coast Saturday night, as one lonely seagull passed over this city Sunday bound south. It is not very often the case a bird of this species is seen so far inland. —M'Minnville Reporter.

The present month is likely to make the usual average December rainfall, as it has rained every day since the 20th up to yesterday. Only one day did over an inch fall, but the total fall since the 20th has been [illegible] inches.

In the state circuit court yesterday J Parker & Co brought an action at law against [illegible] C H, C M, W A and E A Wells to recover $ [illegible] for lumber furnished for a building erected by Phoebe D. Wells on block 23, McMillen's addition, East Portland.

County Treasurer Showers yesterday morning received a postal card from W S Boggs, [illegible], asking information as to the whereabouts of Martin Fuhrina and Patrick Maloney, and that a suitable reward would be paid for information respecting either of them.

Yesterday morning it was reported here that [illegible] Marple, under arrest at Lafayette for the murder of [illegible] Corker, had confessed that he committed the crime and had an accomplice in it. It is also stated that Policeman Belcher has gone up on business in connection with the affair.

An employe at Frank Powers's while moving a big mirror worth about $[illegible] yesterday in some manner accidentally cracked it from top to bottom near the center. Fortunately it is in only two pieces and will consequently make two mirrors, but they will not be worth so much as the big one.

Yesterday morning Mrs Elizabeth Sharlack got out a warrant in the police court for the arrest of H Toupmark, who lives on the Canyon road, for allowing his goats to forage on her premises. Toupmark was brought in by policeman Cornell, and on putting up $5 was released from custody and ordered to appear for trial to-day.

The editor of the Oregon Sentinel says that he visited the extensive vineyards of C [illegible] J N F Miller last week and found large and delicious bunches of grapes hanging upon the vines in the middle of December, which speaks volumes for our Oregon climate. It also speaks volumes for Mr Miller's abiding trust in our glorious climate.

Van B DeLashmutt yesterday instituted suit in the state circuit court against W F Weatherby and A F Weatherby, his wife, to recover a balance of $1364 on a promissory note for $[illegible] executed March 9, 1882, and secured by a mortgage on 20 [illegible] acres of land in S [illegible] T [illegible]. The plaintiff asks that the mortgage be foreclosed and for $[illegible] attorney's fees, costs and disbursements.

THE STAGE.

THE CASINO.—A good house witnessed the initial performance of Varney's opera "The Musketeers" last evening, which as far as stage setting and costuming went was put on in fine style. The opera, which is new to Portland, contains very little music of a catchy quality and depends for its success mainly upon the efforts of two or three characters and the chorus. The plot in brief is this: Two officers of Musketeers (De Brissac and Gontran) disguised as monks gain entrance to a convent school wherein is a young lady (Marie) with whom Gontran is deeply in love. This young lady is designed by her uncle, the governor, who is also her guardian, for the sacred sisterhood. Brissac, who is a free lance in love, partakes too freely of liquid refreshments and cuts up some most audacious pranks in the presence of the scholars and much to the dismay of the Lady Superior (Miss Genevieve Reynolds) and the Abbe Bredaine, who, suspecting the young men of their contemplated prank, has followed them to the convent. His good feeling for the young men keeps them out and all ends as it should. Of last night's performance we cannot speak in terms of very pronounced praise. The choruses lacked precision and strength. Mr Murray, upon whom the bulk of the comedy falls as Brissac, was not quite equal to the occasion. His best scene was in the second act and was heartily encored, and his singing of "Let All Obey" in the last act brought down the house. Miss Clement as Marie acted and sang with fine effect, her song in the school scene being especially artistic and earning her a recall. Mr Wolff's Abbe Bredaine was fair. Miss Louise Lissting made a most charming Simon and sang the "pit-a-pat" song very nicely. But the most pleasing as well as the most artistic personation, both in make up and action, was that of the Lady Superior by Miss Genevieve Reynolds. Her garb was so appropriate and her whole bearing so in keeping with her part that she seemed indeed a very abbess. Louise by Miss Hattie Starr was a sprightly bit of work, and the remainder of the cast was fair. The Musketeers again to-night.

THE NEW MARKET.—The last performance of "Boccaccio" by the Wilbur company was enjoyed by a fair audience last night. To-night and to-morrow night, last performances of "Prince Methusalem" and first appearance of Miss Manfred after her illness. Friday night and Saturday matinee and night, "The Oath of Love."

HONORS TO LOGAN.

Preparations for the Final Obsequies in the Senate.

FINANCIAL AID FOR THE WIDOW.

Fifteen Thousand Dollars Already Subscribed—A Proposal to Grant Her a Pension of $5000 a Year

WASHINGTON Dec 28.—Correspondence was still in progress at a late hour last evening between Senator Cullom and the authorities and the personal friends of Gen. Logan in Chicago, regarding the arrangements for burial. The first tender for the burial-place was received from the authorities at Springfield, who tendered a choice of places in that city, one of them being the cemetery in which Lincoln is interred. Then came tenders from a place in southern Illinois, the neighborhood of Logan's earlier home, and from Chicago the home of of his latter years. During to day urgent representations of the claims of Chicago have been coming from various organizations of that city and from influential personal friends. There is reason to believe that if Chicago makes a definite and reasonable tender of a burial place in that city it will be accepted

Eugenie Pedlon and Miss Sophie S Verdi have taken a plaster cast of the features of Gen Logan

Congressman Hitt of Illinois and Brown of Pennsylvania remained at the Logan mansion all night

Mrs Logan is recovering from her prostration more rapidly than it seemed possible to those who knew her condition yesterday and the labors and vigils she had undergone. She has remained secluded from the mass of callers to-day but has been in frequent consultation with personal friends regarding the arrangements for the funeral finding a measure of relief from her mental anguish in occupation.

THE BURIAL PLACE DISCUSSED

During the afternoon telegrams were received from Chicago throwing a measure of doubt upon the arrangements supposed to have been already practically concluded for the funeral The park commissioners telegraphed that after consultation with their attorney they were reluctantly led to the conclusion that they lacked authority to set apart a place for burial in a public park but the authority they say, will doubtless be granted at once by the legislature which convenes next week In the meantime the citizens' committee of Chicago suggested other arrangements which could be perfected without delay Upon receipt of the above mentioned telegrams it was decided that the funeral of Gen Logan will take place in the senate chamber next Friday and that the remains will be placed in the vault at Oak Hill cemetery here until a place of final burial is determined

PREPARATIONS FOR THE FINAL OBSEQUIES

WASHINGTON Dec 28.—The senate committee acting through the sergeant at-arms will have immediate charge of the remains of Gen Logan Col. Kennedy announces that by request of Mrs Logan Gen Sheridan will be in charge of the procession which will escort the remains from Calumet Place to the capitol

Following is the committee appointed by Senator Sherman to take charge of the remains of Senator Logan Senators Cullom Stanford Cockrell Allison, Beck Hawley Voorhees Hampton and Manderson

The house funeral committee has not been made up yet. A list of the members now in the city was sent to Mrs Logan for her to select from It has not yet been returned to the speaker As soon as the list is returned he will make a formal announcement of the committee.

The chairmanship of the senate committee on military affairs, which Gen Logan has held for years, will probably go to Senator Sewell

The chamber has been draped in mourning for Senator Logan and the chair so long occupied by the latter is a mass of black.

There is a movement on foot to have ex-Confederate soldiers represented in the funeral procession that will follow the remains of Senator Logan Many of the ex-Confederates have expressed a desire to participate and it is probable that a place will be provided for them in the procession

THE PLAN OF SERVICES.

WASHINGTON, Dec 28.—It has been finally decided to-night that the remains of Gen. Logan will be taken to the rotunda of the capitol on Thursday, there to lie in state, watched over by its guards of honor from noon of that day until noon of Friday during which time the public should be given an opportunity to pay its last tribute of respect that at noon Friday the funeral services will be held in the senate chamber after which the remains should be escorted to Rock creek cemetery and temporarily placed in a vault to remain there until a final resting place shall be selected and a tomb prepared

Mrs. Logan having signified her assent to these arrangements the congressional committee entered upon its duty The committee is as follows Senators Cullom Stanford Cockrell, Allison Beck Hawley Voorhees Hampton and Manderson Its first formal meeting will take place at 10 o clock to-morrow at the room of the senate committee on appropriations but already a few details have been informally decided upon The following have been selected as pall bearers Gen Simon Cameron, Hon Roscoe Conkling Hon Robert Lincoln C H Andrews of Youngstown Ohio Col Fred Grant Gen Lucius Fairchild Mr M L Leggett of Cleveland Ohio Gov Jeremiah Rusk of Wisconsin Gen W T Sherman Gen W F Vilas, Gen John C Black and Dr Charles McMillan, of Loyal Legion.

THE OFFICIATING CLERGY

Rev Dr Newman is to be the officiating clergyman, assisted by Dr Butler chaplain of the senate, Bishop Fowler and Rev Dr O H Tiffany The transfer of the remains from Calumet Place to the capitol on Thursday morning will take place with as little ceremony as is consistent with the propriety of an occasion of such gravity The procession from the capitol to the cemetery on Friday however will afford an opportunity for civic and military organizations committees and citizens to testify their respect to the memory of the dead The details of those arrangements have not been concluded but will be announced in due time by the committee through its officer the sergeant-at arms of the senate who will have immediate charge of the entire proceeding.

ORDERS WHICH WILL MOURN

The family of Gen. Logan extend invitations to the various societies military social and Masonic of which Gen Logan was a member to attend the funeral or to send delegations from their bodies for that purpose Among such societies are the Grand Army of Republic the Illinois Commandery of the Loyal Legion the Veteran Union league Union Veteran club Union League club, of Chicago Chevalier Bayard Commandery of Knights Templar and Oriental consistory The vault in which the remains will be deposited is that of Mrs Hutchinson, whose kindly tender of this afternoon was thankfully accepted by Mrs Logan. Among the subjects to be discussed by the senate committee to morrow is the issuance of invitations to the president and cabinet, the supreme court the house of representatives and the diplomatic corps Were the senate in session these would go out in its name but, being recess, the president will have to be looked up The two houses will probably not be formally called to order but members will attend in their individual capacity

SPECIAL G A R. ORDER.

WASHINGTON Dec 28.—The following dispatch was received here this evening

MADISON, Wis Dec 28

Special Order

The commander in-chief is informed that the remains of our comrade Gen John A Logan will lie in state from next Thursday noon until Friday noon, when the funeral ceremonies will take place in the United States senate chamber at Washington D C It is expected and hoped that all comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, who can do so will attend the funeral. By order of

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD, Com in Chief

FRANK W OAKLEY Asst Adjt Genl

Gen Fairchild will arrive in Washington on Thursday evening.

THE BURIAL CASKET

UTICA N Y Dec 28.—An order for a casket for the late Gen John A Logan was received by an undertaking firm of Oneida from Washington this afternoon It is to be of Spanish red cedar covered with broadcloth and heavily draped with the same the drapery to be trimmed with silk fringe and tassels The casket will enclose a full glass air tight copper case which will be tufted throughout with satin, and there will be a pillow of the same. The top will open full length and will also be tufted with cream lined satin The whole is to be enclosed in a polished red cedar outside box with gold plated trimming.

FUND FOR MRS LOGAN

Ten Thousand Dollars Raised in Half that Many Hours

WASHINGTON Dec 28.—Capt. Geo E Lemon of the National Tribune this morning started a subscription fund for the benefit of Mrs Logan with a subscription of $1000 and sent hundreds of invitations to Gen Logan's friends throughout the country asking them to contribute. The Western Union Telegraph company tendered the free use of its wires for transmitting subscriptions Responses are now coming in rapidly and $1000 subscriptions have been received from Senator Sawyer William Walter Phelps John R Drake of Chicago Gov Alger of Michigan [illegible] M Fullman and others The receipts in five hours from the time the subscription was started amounted to $10 000 All persons desiring to contribute should telegraph Geo E Lemon Citizens National bank Washington stating amount of the subscription and send the checks or drafts at once to the order of J A J Creswell president of the Citizens National bank Washington

WASHINGTON Dec 28 Subscriptions [illegible] ing in steady and now amount to over $15 000

A WIDOW'S [illegible]

WASHINGTON Dec [illegible] The [illegible] says Among the members of the house who visited the capitol yesterday and to day the suggestion was passed around that a liberal pension should be granted to the widow of Gen Logan and it met with hearty approval on every hand The democrats manifested as much eagerness as the republicans to join in providing for the widow The hearty manner in which the suggestion has been taken hold of renders it quite certain that among the first acts of congress upon reassembling will be to pass a pension bill for Mrs Logan It is agreed that there would be eminent propriety in granting a liberal pension based on Gen Logan's military services Some members are of the opinion that the pension should be $5000 per year This is the sum granted to the widows of presidents, and though Gen Logan did not occupy an office so exalted as that, he was the recognized head representative of the volunteer soldier It is hardly probable that a pension of less than $3500 will be voted, if the expressions of congressmen upon that subject may be taken as a criterion With regard to the pension, as there is no civil pension list, the proposition for the relief of Mrs. Logan considers only the military services of her husband. It is claimed that no violence will be done to the letter or spirit of the law in granting a pension to her as Gen Logan was a sufferer up to his death from the effects of his army experience It is thought that the rheumatism which was the cause of his death was contracted by exposure in the army

'THE GREAT CONSPIRACY'

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The publisher of General Logan's book, "The Great Conspiracy" received a letter to-day from W B Taylor private and confidential secretary of General Logan in which he says that the receipts from the sale of that book will be about the only legacy left to Mrs Logan and suggesting if this fact could be made known to the public, the patriotic impulses of a grateful people might through this channel place her beyond want. 'Knowing Mrs Logan's circumstances as well as I do' adds the general's secretary 'I beg of you to take immediate steps to place this matter before the public

A PECULIAR REPORT

The O. S. B Under Stress of Weather—Diligence Under Difficulties

SALEM Dec 28

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Nearly a year ago I chanced to ask the then superintendent of the Oregon blind school if that institution was flourishing He replied that he found that it was about to fail for want of material i e pupils that the old was about used up—educated—and new not to be obtained Recently I procured a copy of that officer's report of January last, and herewith enclose it It is what Horace Greeley was wont to describe as 'mighty interestin' readin

It will be seen that there has been lack of endeavor to keep up the material so far as agencies permitted. As the school this year has but nine pupils on its roll against ten last the incoming legislature might provide some compulsory means of bringing in and keeping possession of the other one And as blindness sometimes accompanies extreme old age it is possible that some pupils might be found between the years of 80 and 100 if proper inducements were offered to parties to bring them in It seems now the school has none above the age of 40 It can't be possible that girls and boys cease becoming and being blind after that immature age, and there is evidently lack of means and authority or [illegible] in this particular I can think of nothing else that seems to have been omitted or that can be supplied unless our state board of immigration be required under penalty to scour the Eastern states and the Canadas for blind persons, and having found such to bring them here that the Oregon state blind school may not be compelled to perish from the earth A few thousands a year increase of the appropriation to the board for this purpose would give it a new field for activity and a promising one in which to make additional increase to our population I will not longer keep you from the pleasant perusal of the report EDUCATE

To the Honorable the State Board of Education—In accordance with your request I submit the following report

The Oregon school for the blind closed its annual session on the [illegible]th of May 1886 with ten pupils

There are three other persons in the state all girls children of Floyd Gaughan of Lane county who I believe are eligible to the school

When I first took charge of the school in 1881 I wrote to every county judge in the state urgently requesting them to report to me the name age sex and postoffice address of all blind persons in their respective counties

The reports came to hand in due time There were only thirty three blind persons in Oregon according to these reports, and most of these over 40 years of age. I find on examination of the census reports of 1880 that eighty-seven blind persons were returned for Oregon and that the average in the United States is one blind person to every 1100 of the population.

Therefore I concluded that the county judges had not discovered all of the blind in the state

Two years ago the clerks of every school district in Multnomah county were interviewed by letter on the subject of blind persons suitable for pupils and no additions to the number already known were found In January 1885 a copy of the biennial report of the school was sent to the editors of every newspaper in the state and many of them noticed the school. During the month of April last letters of inquiry in regard to the blind were sent to every county school superintendent in the state Nearly all of them have replied and three semi blind children have been found

A continued effort has been made since the opening of the school in 1883 to the present time to discover all of the blind persons in Oregon Superintendent McElroy who has traveled extensively in Oregon has made inquiry for blind persons and has advertised the school at every opportunity The result is we find very few blind people in Oregon

The personal record of each of the pupils who were in the school at its close on the [illegible]th of last May is as follows

FEMALES

Lou Lewis 40 years old in blind school 5 years
Amy Walling 35 years old in blind school 6 years
Mary Baker 28 years in blind school 2¼ years
Blanche Savage [illegible] years old in blind school 3½ years.
H S Carothers 26 years in blind school 1¾ years
Josie Watkins 25 years in blind school 3¼ years
Sadie Bristow 19 years in blind school [illegible] years
Mollie Read 1[illegible] years in blind school 1½ years
Nettie Branson 18 years, in blind school ½ year

MALES

Fred V Cooper 17 in blind school 4 years

The names of the three children of Lane county are

Avarilla Vaughan [illegible] years old
May Vaughan 11 years old
Dora Vaughan [illegible] years old

These children are not totally blind but they cannot be educated in the schools for the seeing

It is known that there are seven persons of school age in Oregon who are so blind that they cannot be educated in the schools for the seeing

The school ought to be continued and the next legislature asked to pass a law regulating its management All of which is respectfully submitted

ERUPTION OF THE SKIN CURED

BROCKVILLE ONTARIO CANADA Dec 2 1885

I have used BRANDRETH'S PILLS for the past fifteen years and think them the best cathartic and anti bilious remedy known. For some five years I suffered with an eruption of the skin that gave me great pain and annoyance I tried different blood remedies but, although gaining strength the itching was unrelieved I finally concluded to take a thorough course of Brandreth's Pills I took six each night for four nights then five four three two lessening each time by one and then for one month took one every night with the happy result that now my skin is perfectly clear and has been so ever since ED VENNEY

MINING NOTES

Ellensburgh Localizer The Salmon river mines are attracting a large crowd of wealth seekers to that region A great majority of the assays made of the mines there are truly wonderful, and they all say that they have struck it at last It bids fair to be the liveliest camp next season in the northwest.

On Thursday eight carloads of ore were pulled down the Helena & Red Mountain branch, and on Friday five carloads. This ore comes from the Lee Mountain group of mines, and is destined to the Wickes smelter These mines will ship about five carloads per day continually, and the Peerless Jennie and other properties will considerably increase the amount of shipments in a little time

Helena Independent George O Haley was in town yesterday with a Montana turnip—a lump of gold retort worth $766 64, which he deposited at the United States assay office It was taken from five and a half tons of rock pounded in a hand mortar The rock came from the Bourbon lode on the Big Injun creek Mr Haley had some fabulously rich specimens of the quartz with him
